Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****. Excerpt from Thomas Wentworth Higginson The scene of A Moonglade, the closing sketch in the little volume, The Procession of the Flowers, is laid at Newport. The other essays in that charming collection were written at Worcester, and Lake Quinsigamond gets into most of them. Their very titles, April Days, My Outdoor Study, Water Lilies, the Life of Birds - show that they properly belong among the Outdoor Papers; and in the volume so entitled they finally found place. This volume is the best expression of Colonel Higginson as an outdoor man; for, like Lowell, he was always emphatically that, a man of the fields and woods as much as a man of the library. He was the most red blooded and rural of scholars, loving birds quite as well as books, and carrying into the garden and on to the hills the instinct and talent of the naturalist as truly as the love and sympathy of the poet. He was as much at home presiding at a meeting of the Appalachian Mountain Club or the Massachusetts Bicycle Club as in reading a paper before the historical-genealogical Society.
