GAO evaluated Department of Defense (DOD) procedures for obligating operation and maintenance appropriations for stock fund purchases to determine whether the obligations are being made in accord with existing statutory requirements. Defense stock funds finance the purchase of materials and common-use items and hold these items in inventory until purchased by military service or DOD customers, and customer activities use appropriated funds to reimburse the stock fund for the cost of items delivered. DOD regulations have required that obligations for purchases from stock funds be recorded at the time the material is dropped from stock fund inventory records for delivery to the customer. This policy can present a problem because the customer has little control over when funds are obligated, and the inability to record obligations until ordered items are delivered by the stock fund creates additional problems near the end of the fiscal year. GAO has long held the opinion that DOD criteria should be changed so that obligations for stock fund purchases are recorded at the time orders are placed to improve administrative controls over appropriations. In 1974, DOD...
