SUSAN (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)DOWNLOAD

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Susan It was a beautiful fall day, and though the leaves were changing color, very few had fallen. The breeze from the sea not only carried a salty tang, but there was a chill in it, a warning that even in this southern town, winter could be cold and uncomfortable. However, it was pleasantly warm here in the kitchen where the remains of a fire burned in the old fireplace that took off the early morning chill. The copper kettle hanging from the spit was used only for beauty nowadays. A big stove that burned wood made cooking easier. When the stove was installed, the man wanted to seal up the fireplace and use the flue for the stove. Mrs. Canady would not hear of it. Many enjoyable hours had been spent around that flagstone hearth, and she expected to have many more. The stove and a new chimney could be built on the other wall between the two windows. And so it was done. Most of the chairs in the room were around the breakfast table, but there was one rocker with a worn cushion (to soften the hard wood seat) by the fireplace. Near it stood a youth's cane-seated chair surrounded by wooden toys. The floor was bare, and made of wide boards almost white from much scrubbing. It was quiet in the room after the turmoil of the family breakfast. The banjo clock on the wall ticking loudly, showed the time to be nine-thirty. Brother Isaac had taken Frances to her school on the way to his own. The private school where he taught was for boys only. Baby Julia had wanted to play...
