Moral Force - British Man-Power - London Rationing - Caillaux - The Winter Campaign In The West - Karlsruhe Bombed. During a week of which the military incidents could be summarised in a few lines, for the Arctic conditions on the European fronts continued to keep fighting in the field on a relatively quiet level, the political and social outlook proved more than ordinarily interesting. On the War of Machines a lull had fallen; the War of Moral Forces showed a steady increase of power. There were happenings at home and abroad which the future philosophical historian of this struggle will one day seize upon as vital factors of the stupendous drama, wherein, perhaps, he will be more concerned with the psychological than with the material elements. His theme will still be Arms and the Man, as with the Mantuan of old; but it seems as if the Man would preponderate. For the destiny of the human race, now at stake, is being decided less by the crossing of bayonets than by the crossing of national wills. Daily it becomes clearer (although contemporary eyes can catch only a partial glimpse of the present world movement) that the will of the masses gathers momentum. It is a thing distinct from the policy of official rulers everywhere, who are manifestly aware of the fact, and are trimming their sails to the breeze, if they are not already shortening sail to meet the tempest. For good or ill, the voice of organised Labour becomes more insistent, Labour itself comes to a fuller self-consciousness, and...
